

It's imperative that we have multiple sources for mainstream news. As Americans know from Vietnam, surrounding yourself with people who agree gets you in trouble. That's the situation we're getting closer and closer to as single companies are becoming the sole news source for more and more people.